

BAKER SCHOOL
OF PUBLIC POLICY & PUBLIC AFFAIRS

Knoxville, TN | August 16-18, 2023

SOUTHEAST ENERGY POLICY FORUM

Call for Sponsors

About

The inaugural Southeast Energy Policy Forum hosted by The Baker School of Public Policy and Public Affairs at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, provides educational content and networking opportunities for private and public sector leaders as they navigate new energy markets, decarbonization trends, demand-side technologies, and transportation electrification.

The forum is ideal for leaders of private sector energy producers and consumers, public utilities, policymakers, regulators, and sustainability managers.

The new Baker School, in the legacy of its namesake, Senator Howard Baker Jr., who championed the Clean Air and Clean Water Act, is a leader in convening critical conversations in the areas of energy markets, policy, and the environment. The Energy Policy Forum offers an accelerated information-sharing platform and networking opportunity for public and private sector leaders as the Southeast moves towards a zero-carbon future.

Premium: $30,000

- 10 tickets to the Forum
- 1 seat on Forum Advisory Board—help shape the event agenda
- Opportunity to present or speak on a panel
- Opportunity to display materials in the rotunda
- Logo recognition on event page
- Logo recognition on event agenda
- Recognition on social media
- Verbal recognition during the event

Basic: $10,000

- 3 tickets to the Forum
- Opportunity to speak on a Panel
- Opportunity to display materials in the rotunda
- Logo recognition on event page
- Logo recognition on event agenda
- Recognition on social media
- Verbal recognition during the event

Sponsors play a key role in the information sharing and networking that is critical to advance net-zero and decarbonization goals. For more information contact Charles Sims, Director of the Energy & Environmental Policy Program, at cbsims@utk.edu or (865) 974-3825. Visit <https://bakercenter.utk.edu/news-and-events/>

Sincerely,

Marianne Wanamaker
Executive Director